Concept: cycle of life

To “exist” in such a large space without being crushed by the strong presence of the building and the large opening on the surroundings, it seems important to propose a project that considers and integrates into the landscape. By being part of the whole, it is possible to create a dynamic link between landscape elements and thus confer the roundabout a real presence, a strong image and a central position.

For the geriatric hospital and relying on the round shape of the roundabout, I propose an installation in connection with the life cycle and its three ages (children, adults, elderly). Inserted in a green simple setting, (and himself harmoniously integrated in the landscaped setting), three “mirrored silhouettes” and 1 or 2 giant transparent silhouettes punctuate the circular space.

The goal is to create a work that integrates not only the landscape context but follows the seasons, changes according to it is day or night and grows with the years: it is a living project !
